R1: My First Few Weeks of USERDES Class

Instructions: A reflection paper is your chance to write about your thoughts and analysis of what you have experienced. How did it affect your ideas and your way of thinking? What have you realized during the process?

My first week in USERDES is all about determining different terminologies such as design, user design, user experience design and user interface design. It is a basic knowledge that introduce us to the subject, but I think even though we provided the meaning of that term, we still do not know the essence of it in digital world.

After that activities, we tasked to create a personal website with our personal information, I think it is a way to refresh our programming knowledge about HTML and CSS. I successfully refresh my basic knowledge about programming. You also gave us different cites that we can use in creating our own website, personally, those cites improved my design style in website because there has plenty of options.

On the second week of USERDES, we discussed about design, user design, why is it important and how is it work. I think that I fully understand that when creating your own design in your client website you must consider your users or in E-commerce you must consider your customers; just like the twitter where they created a feature where you can customize your own timeline design.
